Introduction

The School of Education hosted an online webinar on "Choosing the Right Journals for Publications" on 02.05.2023. The webinar was aimed at helping researchers and academicians to select appropriate journals for their research work. 56 participants from school of Education attended the session. The webinar was organized by Dr. Indu. H, the Deputy Dean of the School of Education. The resource person for the webinar was Dr K Mahalakshmi, Assistant Librarian, Avinashilingam Institute for Home Science and Higher Education for Women. She shared her expertise with the participants on journal selection for publication.

Webinar Content

The webinar began with an introduction to the importance of selecting the right journal for publication. The presenter emphasized the need for researchers to consider factors such as the scope of the journal, its impact factor, indexing, and the target audience.

The session then focused on the various factors that researchers should consider before choosing a journal. These included the topic and scope of the journal, the quality and reputation of the journal, the publication frequency, the target audience, and the impact factor. The presenter also discussed the importance of checking if the journal is indexed in databases such as Scopus and Web of Science.

The session also included practical tips on how to identify the most suitable journals for one's research work. These tips included searching for journals in one's research field using online databases such as the UGC Care I and Care II Journals. The resource person showed how to login to the remote login from our university website. The presenter also demonstrated how to find the fake journals and where to find the list of fake journals.

The webinar also addressed the common mistakes that researchers make while choosing journals, such as targeting high-impact journals that are not relevant to their research area or submitting to predatory journals that lack academic rigor. The presenter emphasized the need for researchers to carefully assess the quality and legitimacy of journals before submitting their work.

The session concluded with a Q&A session where participants asked questions related to their specific research areas and the selection of journals.

Conclusion

The online webinar on "Choosing the Right Journals for Publications" was a valuable learning experience for researchers and academicians. The session provided practical tips and guidance on how to identify the most appropriate journals for their research work and avoid common mistakes while submitting their work. It is hoped that the webinar will help researchers to enhance the quality and visibility of their research work by targeting appropriate and reputable journals for their publications.
